Behaviour	The aims of the behaviour curriculum	- At Kingshill, we believe that appropriate behaviour, like any other skill, needs to be taught, modelled and practised. We believe that good behaviour is fundamental to academic success and personal growth. Through it, we aim to foster a respectful learning environment where all members of the school community can flourish. To help our children succeed, we believe that we should teach rather than tell so as a result, our behaviour curriculum goes beyond our behaviour policy. This curriculum identifies the behaviour we will explicitly teach each child. We want our children to understand how and why we behave and to have frequent opportunities doing so for these behaviours to become intrinsic in their everyday lives. - Our behaviour curriculum is designed to be accessible for all children from Nursery to Year 2. If needed, we adapt it to suit the needs of all pupils including those with SEND and other additional needs: we want every child to succeed. - This curriculum aims to create a safe, calm and supportive environment that protects children from disruption. - Our Behaviour Curriculum defines the expected behaviours at Kingshill. It is centred on what successful behaviour looks like rather than a list of prohibited behaviours.
Modelling	Teaching The Curriculum	- The behaviour curriculum is taught explicitly during the first week of the Autumn Term alongside the National Curriculum. It is then taught explicitly again in the first week of each new term (3 times per year). - Pupils are regularly refreshed of the behaviour curriculum to ensure they understand the expectations of them. - This curriculum explicitly outlines behaviours for learning, standards and routines so that we have a shared a consistent language of expectations across school. - Children should learn the content of the curriculum so that they can recall the information and act upon it. - As with other curriculum content, this should be taught using explicit teaching including regular quizzing to check and strengthen retention. - All staff will also demonstrate these behaviours and ensure pupils have many opportunities to practise these (particularly in the first few days of term). - It is expected that all pupils will know this content.	The process for teaching behaviour explicitly is as follows: - IDENITIFY the behaviour we expect - Explicitly TEACH behaviour - MODEL the behaviour we are expecting - PRACTISE behaviour - NOTICE excellent behaviour - CREATE conditions for excellent behaviour (organised classroom, prepared staff, excellent relationships and strategic seating plans that enable excellent behaviour for learning) It is important that all school staff know the details of this curriculum, teach it explicitly to children and continuously maintain the high standards we set. By doing so we support each other to create a culture where pupils feel safe and can learn in an optimised environment and where teachers are free to teach
SEND	While this curriculum is for all pupils it will be applied differently in different year groups depending on pupils' ages and may be applied differently depending on individual pupils' SEND needs. For example, pupils who have autistic spectrum conditions may find it very uncomfortable to maintain eye-contact with adults. Sensitivity must be applied at all times when teaching the curriculum unimpeded.	Planning for SEND children: We plan to support SEND children with their behaviour using guidance from their ECHP, an ISP or behaviour plan. (following our Therapeutic approach)

Our Pupils will be taught and know the following expectations and routines:
